From the Friend.

THE WORK OF GOD.

"O Lord! how manifold are thy works, in wisdom hast thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches: so is the great sea, wherein are things innumerable, both small and great."

Psalm civ.

Upon the rolling sea,
Upon the firm fixed land,
O God! ordering lines there be
Of thine Almighty hand.

Behold it, as a book
Traced with immortal pen,
Where high and low alike may look
Among the sons of men.

Rushing so great, so high,
But owns God's sovereign will;
Nothing so lowly, but he ere
Bees, and protects its still.

The stars that nightly rise
In the blue vault above,
Point to the Throne beyond the skies,
Pure source of light and love.

The waters wide and deep,
And all within them found,
Tell of a hand stretched out to keep
The sea within its bound.

The earth in verdure clad,
The flower that yearly springs,
Whose fragrance makes the spirit glad,
These speak of heavenly things.

Too beautiful to be
Born but to mix with dust;
Not types of things we hope to see
Such is the Christian's trust.

The mountains, rocks and hills,
The desert, lone and drear,
Where, 'tho' the dew and rain distill,
No offerings appear.

Each has its written page—
And he that reads may read
Lessons, inscribed for youth and age,
In every hour of need.

Why should our spirits fall?
Why doth our faith decay?
God hears the feeble sparrow's wail—
"And are we less than they?"

Nay, Christian! wherefore yield?
Thou' strength seems well nigh gone,
Take up again the heavenly shield,
And gird thy armor on.

Onward, through storm and calm—
Onward, in hope or fear—
Is Oiled thou wilt yet find balm,
And a Physician near!

Rural Economy.

FARM IMPLEMENTS AND LABOR SAVING MACHINES.

As farmers generally have more leisure at the present season than any other time of the year we recommend to their attention procuring and repairing such farming implements as they may need for use during the ensuing season. Ploughs, harrows, rakes, hoes, shovels, forks, carts, hay-rakes, scythes, cradles, and many other things, should be examined and put in order; and if there be any probability of there not being a sufficient number for performing conveniently the required work, it will be proper to procure additional ones to supply the deficiency. We do not wish to advocate a lavish waste of money, in buying what would be unnecessary, but to direct the farmers to the importance of always having on hand a sufficient number of tools. It is no evidence of economy to save a few shillings by refraining from the purchase of a rake or hoe, and afterwards lose a day's work or more, in a hasty season, in consequence of the deficiency thus occasioned. Neither is it a proof of economy to purchase the cheapest implements only. The cheapest are generally the worst made and are either weak or clumsy. We have known active workmen to waste nearly half their strength in using such—in performing day after day, not more than two thirds of the labor they might have done, had they used strong, neat and well made tools—As it is impossible to work without tools, so it is impossible to do work well without good tools.

Another important subject is that of labor saving implements and machines. There is one great advantage in these which is generally overlooked. By enabling the farmer to dispatch his business, his work is more completely under his control; and he is enabled to guard against loss or damage which might be the consequence of more protracted operations. Thus for instance in using the horse rake, he is not only enabled to accomplish the same work with one quarter of the expense he would otherwise have to employ; but by enabling him to perform it so much more expeditiously, he can take advantage of the weather, and have many acres upon the ground without the danger of having it spoiled by rain; as the speed with which he may collect it with a horse-rake, enables him to anticipate the approach of wet weather. This, independently of the immediate amount of labor it saves, prevents the troublesome operation of drying wet hay after it has once before become fit for the mow or stack. Again, by the use of the planting or drilling machine, one man is enabled to do the work of several; this is one item of saving; but in addition to this, it very often happens that a crop may be planted with it during a favorable season, and while the ground is in the best possible condition; while without it the work might be protracted till the ground is rendered unfit by heavy rains, and a loss of many bushels to the acre sometimes arises out of crops being planted out of season.

A vast amount of labor might be saved by employing a moderate share of thought and contrivance in constructing or procuring, and arranging, some of the simpler and more common kinds of labor saving machinery. Threshing machines have become quite common, and many are connected with a portable horse power, which may be separated from the machine and applied to other purposes. This may be easily, and some times it is, attached to a circular saw, (the cost of which is comparatively small) and the expensive and laborious operation of sawing wood by the hand, is rendered expeditious and easy.—It may also with a little contrivance, be made to work a straw cutting machine a turnip and potatoe slicer, a corn sheller, and other similar machines, which are commonly worked by hand; and this may frequently be done while it is driving a threshing machine, or performing other work. We have known a fanning mill to be connected with it, and worked by the same power. The threshing machine being situated on a floor above, so that the wheat fell directly from it into the hopper of the fanning mill, and passed out ready for market.—We have also heard of a pair of flint-stones placed in a barn, which could be driven by the horse power of a threshing machine, and used for grinding food for domestic animals. By a little attention and thinking, numberless similar conveniences may be devised. Improvements of this kind should not however be adopted, until calculation has proved that from the amount of labor they will be required to perform, the alternate saving will more than counter balance the immediate cost.—The Monthly Gentleman Farmer.

From the Brookville (Indiana) American, March 4.

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY. It becomes our painful duty to record one of the darkest deeds in the annals of crime. On Saturday the 27th of Feb. in the neighborhood of Liberty Union co. Ind. and 15 miles from this place a man, by the name of Isaac Heler, murdered his whole family—his wife and three children? The circumstances are reported to be of the most aggravated nature. It appears that some of the neighbors had called at the residence of Heler, and told him that unless he would go to work and maintain his family, the proper officers would attend to it, and his family would then become a county charge. This appeared somewhat to incense him. He is presented as being a robust man, not giving to dissipation, but extremely improvident and indolent. After these persons left the house, he rose and lifted the axe from beneath the bed—telling his wife that he was going out to chop and passing behind where she was sitting with the child in her arms, struck her to the floor—literally splitting her down. A girl sister to the wife, being present and seeing the stroke thus made at her sister, flew to give the alarm, but before relief could reach the place the work was done!

The wife, after receiving the perpendicular stroke, was heard by the retreating girl to give one scream. He then threw the children on the floor, as reported by himself they made no noise. The murderer had fled when the alarm had called any assistance. But immediate pursuit being despatched, he was overtaken six or eight miles on the Brookville road and surrounded without resistance, only giving in justification of the act, that "they were likely to become a county charge, and that he would rather see them in their present situation." He is said to have answered the prisoners very composedly and sedately, by no means agitated—said he knew very well what he had done. And when before the court, he was equally calm and unfurried.

It is said that he has been guilty of murder before, in Western Penn. and convicted by a jury, but reprieved by the executive, on the plea of insanity. Some of the particulars of this case are reported to be these: he had two brothers living, neighbors, with one of whom he was then residing. He was discovered one morning, before the family rose, to be making some arrangements in the house that alarmed them. They rose and fled to the house of the other brother not thinking at all of a child—an orphan child living with them—and left in a bed. After reaching the place of retreat, the woman thinking of the child, mentioned it, observing that he could bear no malice against the child. The two brothers, however, returned to the deserted house, and found that he had murdered the child in bed and fled. After being taken, standing a trial, and finally being reprieved he came to Indiana, and, at the suggestion of some friends, dropped his true name, which was Young, and assumed that of Heler, that being a middle name from his mother. There are more suggestions that he is now insane. He, some five or six months since, said that he was insane, and frequently told persons that he had an inclination to kill his wife and family. He is now safely lodged in the Liberty jail.

To form a vigorous mind. Let every youth earnestly settle it in his mind that if he would ever be any thing, he has got to make himself; or in other words, to rise by personal application. Let him always try his own strength, and try it effectually, before he is allowed to call upon others; send him back again and again to the resources of his own mind, and make him feel that there is nothing too hard for industry and perseverance to accomplish. In his early and timid flights, let him know that stronger pinions are near and ready to sustain him, but only in case of absolute necessity. When in the rugged paths of science; if difficulties impede his progress which he cannot surmount let him be helped over them but never let him think of being led when he has power to walk without help; nor of carrying his ure to another's furnace, when he can melt it in his own.

THE INDIANS.—We find the following paragraph in the Chicago American of the 27th ult.

"Rumors says the Indians on our frontiers are discontented and that those who were removed west of the Mississippi last year are returning. If such be the case, we may have another B. Hawk affair. The number of warriors in the neighboring tribes is estimated at 4,000 to 5,000. The country is wholly unprepared for resistance in case the Indians should commence hostilities."

The Irish papers are more than usually filled with accounts of murders, affrays and outrages committed by the efforts to enforce the payment of tithes. Such of these accounts exceeds in atrocity almost any thing of which we have read.

Important!

TO PERSONS SUFFERING FROM RHEUMATIC COMPLAINTS.

To the Editor of the Inquirer: Sir—On the principle indicated by the great and good Dr. Franklin, to diffuse as widely as possible every means in our power to mitigate or often the afflictions of suffering humanity, I feel it incumbent upon me to make known through the medium of your useful paper, that on reading therein an advertisement of Dr. J. B. Lincolnton, for the cure of RHEUMATISM, I was deeply impressed with a belief that it was calculated to remove the severe Rheumatic affection to which I had been for seven or eight years subjected, sometimes almost depriving me of the use of my limbs. I accordingly procured a bottle, and before I had used the whole of it, found very sensible relief. This increased my confidence in it, and led me to obtain another bottle, the use of which has completely removed the swellings and pains of my limbs, together with the cramp, and restored them to their wonted vigor.

I am respectfully yours,

GEORGE TAYLOR, Jr.

Hempstead, La. I. March 24th.

CONSUMPTION!

DR. RELFE'S ASTHMATIC PILLS, have, from their extraordinary success in giving instant relief, and in curing Croup, Coughs, Asthma, Difficulty of Breathing, Wheezing, Tightness of the Chest, Pain in the Side, Spitting of Blood, Chills and Shiverings that precede Fevers and Lung Complaints generally, become one of the most popular medicines known, and are sought after from every part of the country, on account of the astonishing success which has attended their administration in the above complaints, frequently curing the most obstinate cases, and giving the most unexpected relief, after every other remedy had failed, and persons had given themselves up in despair of a cure.

They have been known to cure persons supposed to be far gone in consumption, and exhibiting all the appearance of approaching dissolution. And such have been the salutary effects of these Pills even in hopeless cases, as so far to mitigate the sufferings of the patient, as eventually to prolong life for days and weeks, and give to it a positive comfort they never expected to enjoy.

The operation of the pills is wonderful in easing respiration, quieting the cough, and procuring comfortable rest. Common colds are frequently removed in a few hours.

Although, (says a person speaking of these Pills,) my wife has tried various medicines of the first celebrity, for an asthmatic difficulty, (or affection of the lungs,) which at times was exceedingly distressing, confining her to her house for days and weeks together, she finds nothing gives her relief which Relfe's Asthmatic Pills do—causing her respiration, quieting her cough, and giving her comfortable rest. And this is the testimony of hundreds or thousands. The relief which aged people, as well as others, experience from the use of these pills, is truly astonishing, and renders them invaluable to many, and are in fact to some, an essential auxiliary to their cure.

A Physician informs the proprietor, that a gentleman in the country observed to him, he had reason to believe the use of these pills had been the means of saving his life.

Price, whole boxes, 30 pills, $1; half do, 12 pills 50c.

Persons who have used it, pronounce it without hesitation the best preparation for their complaints they have ever met with.
